Executive Financial Dashboard

Total Revenue	Net Income	Debt To Equity Ratio	Net Margin	Current Ratio
67.59K	8.88K	3.62	13.14%	1.44
▲ 4.3%	▼ -17.7%	High Financial	▼ -21.1%	Healty Liquidity

2021 2022 2023 2024 2025

Revenue Vs Net Income

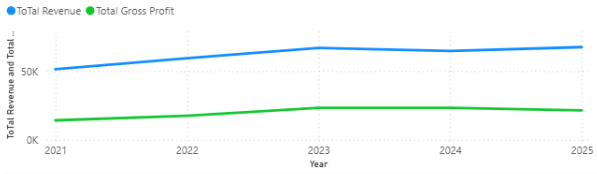

Revenue continues to grow, while profitability declined in 2025, suggesting pressure on margins.

Solvency

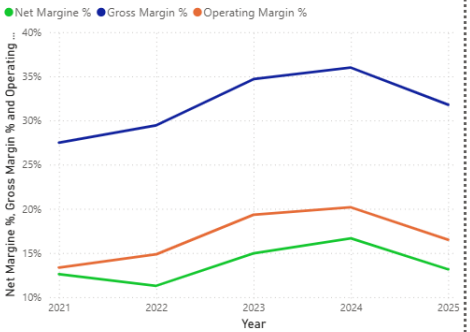

The company maintains a healthy solvency position, supported by steady growth in assets and equity.

Revenue vs Gross Profit Trend

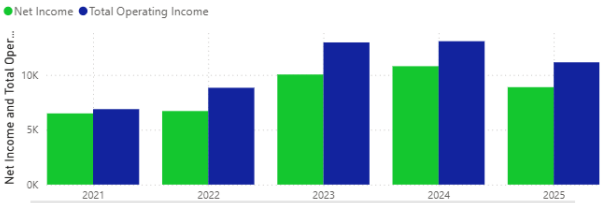

The widening gap between revenue and gross profit since 2024 signals that COGS is growing faster than revenue, pointing to rising production costs as an early driver of margin pressure.

Profit Margin Trends

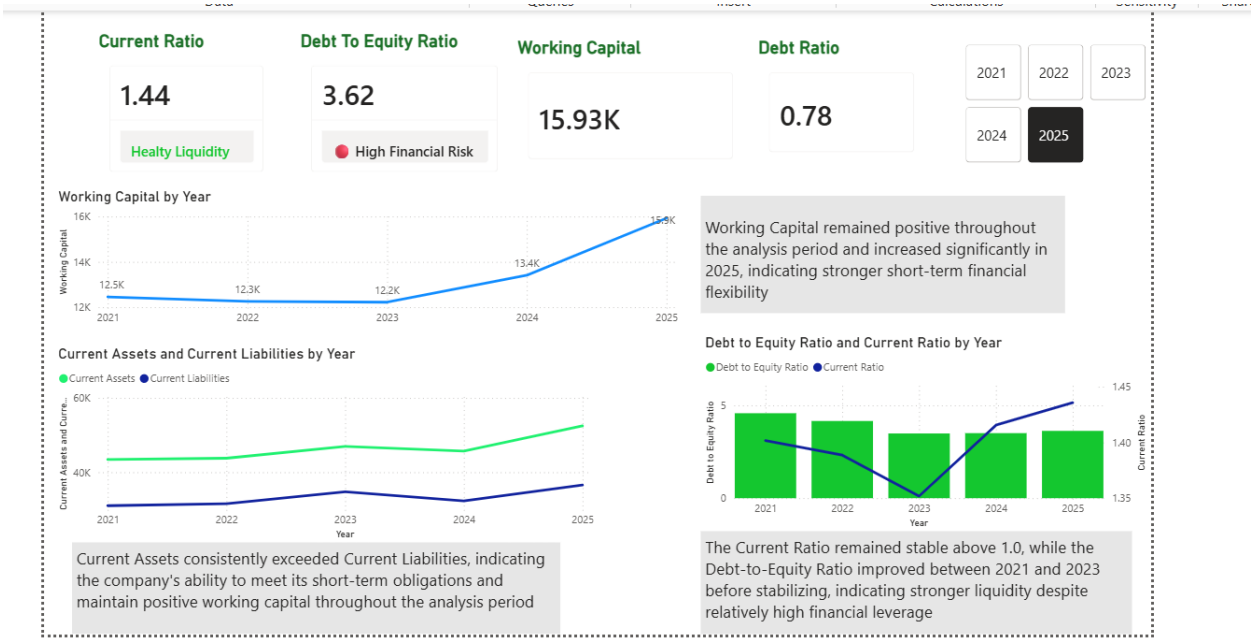

All three margins declined together in 2025 after peaking in 2023–2024, indicating a structural issue: rising COGS is compressing gross margin, while higher financing costs (linked to the elevated debt-to-equity ratio) are further widening the gap to net margin.

Operating Income vs Net Income

The growing gap between operating income and net income in 2024–2025 reflects increasing non-operating charges mainly interest expense eroding profit before it reaches the bottom line.

Exacutive | Profitability | Liquidity & Solvency | +

Exacutive | Profitability | Liquidity & Solvency | +